BUCK'S POOR TIPS

BY WHICH THE PRESIDENT HAS BEEN DELUDED.

THE CARPET-BAGGER'S CAREER

May Be Cut Short Because of His Lack of Discretion—The President Making Personal Inquiries to Help Himself.

WASHINGTON, February 11 .- [Spec-ial.]of Carpet-Bagger Buck's billy goat namesake at the Gress zoo being "ripped up the back" by Maggie Muldoon, the boxing bear, was read with great interest by Georgians here. Indeed, the unanimous opinion here is that the republican boss billy goat has reached the end of his rope, and that he will soon find him-self "ripped up the back" by that adminis-He will also find himself no longer the republican boss in Georgia. E. Angier, Georgia republicans here say, will be his successor as chairman of the Georgia republican committee. He will be the choice of the better element of republicans in Georgia, and he is the man favored by some of the great republicans of Georgia, who have within ten years past, taken little Interest in politics. Some of these men have been here recently, and have thrown a bright light upon the situation in Georgia. HARRISON NOT PLEASED.

It also comes straight that even Harrison is learning a few things, and that Buck's influence with the administration in future will not be powerful as it has been in the past. Seeing his schemes to inflict certain Georgia cities with worthless negro postmasters, some very prominent republicans and high tariff crats have written here, and given the administration some very good advice, which, it is possible will be adopted. In that event heither Athens or Americus will have negro postmasters, although the Americas one has been appointed. However, his confirmation WANAMAKER APOLOGIZES. Mr. Wanamaker has taken occasion to apologize for his mean reference to Athens in his recent conversation with Mr. Carlton, He stated to Mr. Carlton today that it was simto see the publicity his statement had gained. Mr. Wanamaker has seen all the comments of the Georgia press on him recently, and has remerchants, stating that his business houses would be boycotted if negro postmasters were appointed in Georgia. He is very sore about entire matter, and has been profuse in his explanation to Senator Colquitt and other Georgians who called at the department today. He says he has no object in making enemies anywhere, and he does not intend to do so. He, of course, was compelled to look to men of his own party to recommend men for office, and if unacceptable persons had been recommended, he would be glad to make suitable appointments, but of course, intended to give the offices to republicans.

Senator Colquitt says he feels very confident that the appointment of Dudley as postmaster at Americus will be withdrawn. In that event the postoffice will go to Colonel Jack Brown's son, who is a resident of Americus Indeed Wanamaker left the impression upon the minds of those who called today that he would not put any negroes in important Geor-gia postoffices. However, they will know definitely in a few days.

SENATOR BLAIR'S LONG SPEECH.

Senator Blair has been consuming the time of the senate for four days speaking on his educational bill. He has tired the senators out and the chances of the bill passing are waning every day. Indeed, the opponents of the bill are working quietly but vigorously to defeat it in the the senate. Senator Faulkner, of West Virginia, said today he believed the bill would be defeated by one or two votes. He has made a thorough canvass of the senate and is certain of forty votes against it, while he feels ver confident that his list will be swelled to fortyfour, which will be two more votes than are necessary to kill it. Nearly all the southern Seaators Colquitt and Hampton will probably be the only southern senators who will cast their votes for this bill. The new code of rules has been under dis-cussion for two days in the house, but there has been no excitement, and the majority of speeches made have been to empty benches. Today Reed's lieutenant. Cannon, of Illinois. tried to gag the democrats and stop debate by introducing a resolution to have a vote at 1 o'clock tomorrow. Reed had ordered this, but his own party would not sustain him, and adopted an amendment offered by Springer, a democrat, for the vote to be taken Friday evening. Reed was somewhat miffed at this almost unanimous bolt of the party, and Cannon plainly showed his anger by insisting on an aye and no vote, but his own men even refused to allow this, and the dem-ocrats cheered him down. Reed had notified every republican, sick or well, to be present tomorrow at 1 o'clock, and he now fears that tomorrow at 1 o'clock, and he now fears that he will be unable to get enough of the sick out on Friday evening at such a late hour as 5 o'clock, to have a republican quorum present. He is anxious to pass his rules without resort-ing to the arbitrary and unconstitutional pow-er of counting a quorum present when a quo-rum is not recorded as voting. E. W. B.

A VICTORY FOR SPRINGER.

The Republicans Aid the Democrats in Suppressing Gag Law.

Washington, February 11.—The journal of yesterday's proceedings, containing the yea and may vote upon which the speaker counted a quorum, was read. The democrats would not by their silence acquiesce in its approval, and a roll call was rendered necessary. It was approved—yeas 150, nays 1 (Mr. Buckalew), the speaker counting a operum.

the speaker counting a quorum.

Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, called up for consideration the proposed code of rules, and he offered a resolution providing that general debate shall close at 1 o'clock tomorrow, and that (after debate under the five-minutes rule) the previous question shall be considered as ordered at 4 o'clock tomorrow.

Vigorous protests against cutting off discussion in such short order were made by Messrs.

McMillin, Hooker, Springer, McCreary, and Flower, but they were of no effect and Mr. Cannon demanded the previous question. But the house would not sustain this demand, and many reary rearbitions, world against it. mand was rejected by the overwhelming vote of 58 to 149.

Mr. Springer immediately claimed the floor, but Mr. Cannon declined to yield it. He proposed either to lose the previous question or at least to get some indication at what time this year the gentlemen on the other side were willing to close the debate. He demanded the yeas and nays on his demand for the previous question. But not a sufficient number of members arose to enforce this demand, (amid applause from the democratic side) the speaker o announced.

Mr. Cannon then yielded the floor, recognizing, as he said, his colleague, Mr. Springer, was in charge of the resolution. (Laughter.) The democrats were jubilant over their victory, and as Mr. Springer arose to make a motion, he was greeted by many of his colleagues as being in charge of the propsed new code.

Mr. Springer then offered a resolution providing that the general debate shall proceed until to-morrow, after which the code shall be considered under the five minute rule until 5 o'clock Friday, when the previous question shall be considered as ordered.

This resolution was adopted without objection, and Mr. Cannon good naturelly crossed over to the democratic side and congratulated his colleague upon its success.

After an hour's discussion the house com After an hour's discussion the house committee on elections this morning, by a strict party vote, decided to recommend that the house unseat Pendleton and seat Atkinson as representative from the first West Virginia district. Chairman Rowell will present the majority report to the house as seen as the rules are disposed of, and probably Mr. O'Ferrall will submit the views of the minority.

In his opinion the rights of the minority were ended when that minority thad expressed its opposition to the minority. In the content of the country. The democrats were here today to obstruct legislation.

Mr. Holman, of Indiana, characterized the proposed code as being a complete revolution in parliamentary proceedure, extraordinary in its character. He especially antagonized the clause providing that 100 members shall constitute a quorum in committee of whole, declaring that this provision would place great appropriation bills at the mercy of a handful of the majority. He spoke of various occasions upon which resort to filibustering methods had been of benefit to the country, and referred, with much emphasis, to the defeat of the force bill by the minority, under the lead of Samuel J. Randall, and he declared that Mr. Randall's course at that time would crown his memory with honor as long as the records of congress would survive.

Mr. Payson, of Illinois defended the proposed code and argued the necessity of the rules, which would give to the majority power to take affirmative action.

Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, said that he would not attempt to argue in detail the radical and violent changes in the rules. He made war upon it as a change in the system of the procedure of the house, because he thought that he could see through the motive behind it.

To-day Mr. Reed represented more clearly and fairly than any other man the scheme and purpose and determination of his party. Gentlemen on the other side had said that the only rights of the minority were to discuss and amend, but as far as the democratic minority was concerned one of their rights was to protect the public treasury.

Gerrymandering. WASHINGTON, February 11.—Among the bills introduced for reference was one by Mr. Pierce to create an agricultural commission to investigate the present depressed condition of the agricultural interests of the country.

Mr. Hoar introduced a bill to prescribe in part the manner of the election of members of congress, and it was referred to the committee congress, and it was referred to the committee on privileges and elections. He read from an article in the New York Mail and Express to justify his assertion as to the failure of the northern states to provide sufficient school justify his assertion as to the failure of the northern states to provide sufficient school facilities and referred sneeringly to the New York Evening Post as maintaining a bureau of mendacity to spread abroad misrepresentations in regard to the bill.

INGALLS FRIGHTENED

By Receiving a Loaded Cartridge Through the Mails.

washington, February 11.—On Saturday last Senator Ingalls's mail contained a small pine wrapped box, four inches long, two inches wide and a little more than an inch thick. On being opened the box was found to contain one of the Union Metallic Cartridge company's "Star" cartridges, with the following inscription in black ink:

"Star carringes, with the following inscription in black ink:
"Election pulls for old cuff or for Ingalis, from Jackson, Miss. Come to see us, old Nutgalis."
Senator Ingalis was not alarmed at the contents of his mail, but both he and his secretary thought it prudent to Jay the cartridge carefully away, as there was a possibility that it might be more destructive than an ordinary cartridge. There was a slight fear that the powder and shot might have been extracted from the shell and replaced with some powerful explosive. The senator, however, was of the opinion that it was a plain, buckshot cartridge, and it is reported, subsequently ascertained this to be a fact by prying open the shell, revealing nine large buckshot and a charge of powder. Even this, it was thought, was not a particularly pleasant present, and the joke may turn out to be a serious one for the perpetrator, as it is a violation of the postal laws to send explosives through the mails. ought it prudent to lay the cartridge car

Congressman Grimes. Who Happens to Be His Vis-a-Vis, Quits the Hotel-A Genuine Sensation-Other Gosslp.

Atlanta's colored lawyer has succeeded at last in getting before the public. He took a seat at the same table with Congressman Grimes in a Washington hotel yesterday. Taylor finished his meal, but Mr.

In fact, Mr. Grimes will hereafter take his meals at another hotel, while the Riggs house will be left to Taylor and his friends.

WHO TAYLOR IS.

Taylor is somewhat of a ginger cake color He was born about forty years ago in Alabama. Always polite and possessed of sufficient diplomacy, he knew on which side his bread was buttered. Senator Pugh, of Alabama. aided the boy in securing an education, and later on, when a minister to Liberia was wanted, the senator recommended Taylor to President Cleveland.

And thus it became: "Hon. C. H. J. Tay-

The climate did not agree with the colored statesman, and he returned to America. He practiced law in Kansas City, was in demand as a democratic campaign orator, and had smooth sailing generally. He wound up by locating in Atlanta, where he was treated cleverly by bench and bar.

HIS NORTHERN TRIP. one weakness about Taylor was nis overweening destro from on every occasion. He had articles for newspapers, and resolutions for conventions always in soak. He left the city several weeks ago to attend the colored convention in Chicago. He promptly withdrew from the body because there were not enough southern negroes in it. Passing eastward, he got into the Washington convention. Here again he had a speech to make and a resolution to offer. He got into the Associated Press, and was juicy meat for the special correspondent.

But the following story gives the latest: C. H. J. Taylor, Atlanta's colored lawyer, is the cause of a genuine sensation here. evening he shocked the guests of the Riggs use, one of the most swell hotels in Washington, by walking into the hotel and taking He was the guest of Nat McKay, A New Yorker who has a big claim pending be-fore congress. McKay carried him into the diningroom without first exhibiting him to the clerk or registering him. The head waiter conducted him to the table at which Mr Grimes and other gentlemen sat. As soon as his presence was noted. Mr. Grimes and a number of others retired from the diningroom, settled their bills and left the hotel to seek other quarters. Indeed everyone was indignant, and it is probable there will be a general exodus from the hotel. Taylor has been well treated here, and has succeeded in getting himself interviewed very generally, but he has gone a step too far, although Mc censured for making him his guest at the hotel.

Taylor is not without his recompense, however, as prominent northern papers have given him taffy freely. The New York Herald prints the following lawyer, one of the very few of his race who is a member of the bar of the supreme court, was a delegate to the recent negro convention, at Wash-ington. He sends us a very interesting letter, which we print elsewhere, in which he shows how the convention was made up and the different opinions held in it. He asserts that a considerable proportion of the delegates represented no constituency, but wrote their own credentials; that, for instance, the delegate for Oklahoma never saw Oklahoma, and that a large number of other delegates whom he names were office-seek-ers and hangers-on in Washington. For this reason he thinks it a mistake in the Herald to regard this convention as in any way representing the colored people of the country Mr. Taylor adds some remarks upon the sountry. Mr. Taylor adds some remarks upon the situation of the southern negroes and their relations to the whites which are so sensible that the convuntion would have done well to be guided by him and those who think with him.

It is pleasant to know that there are two onin ions among the blacks on political questions, and that there are men of sense like Mr. Taylor who totally disagree with the action of the recent convention. We wish very much that Mr. Taylor and men of his stamp would call a convention and have a show of hands on their side.

Senator Edmunds's Utah School Bill. WASHINGTON, February 11 .- The bill into duced by Senator Edmunds today to provide a public school system for Utah is a most elabo rate and comprehensive measure and with great minuteness provides about all the legislation necessary for the conduct of school affairs in the territory. One of the objects of the bill is to diminish Mormon influence and it is hoped that this will be gradually se-cured with the spread of intelligence among the youth of the territory. Instruction is to be given in temperance, manuers and morals, in addition to the usual public school duties. No sectarian or denominational books shall be used or sectarian doctrines taught. Complete machinery for governing the school system and a financial scheme for its support is provided.

TELLS THE STORY OF HER MARRIAGE And Utterly Repudiates Dick Hawes as Monster-A Pathetic Talk-The Trial of John Wyly-Other News.

COLUMBUS, Miss., February 11 .- [Special.] Since Dick Hawes was taken from the side of his bride of six hours to answer the charge of murdering his first wife and his two children scores of reporters and correspondents have tried in vain to interview the young lady he

Miss May S. Storey, that was her maiden name, is now living quietly at the home of her parents in this city. Here your correspondent, by strategy, secured an interview in which she tells the whole story how she ence loved Dick Hawes, and how she hated him when she learned of his crimes. When she first commenced to talk about the affair, she said:

"I try to forget. People say I bear up bravely, but I had to do it. If I had given way to the terrible grief that was breaking my heart, it would have killed my old father. You know he opposed the marriage, and when the blow came it almost killed him. For his sake I have tried to bear it bravely. The subject is never mentioned at home now. You have seen father—his gray hairs? That awful trouble

"Do I love that man? "No! no! God forbid! I hate him. He is the man I loved. I loved a man who looked like Mr. Hawes, but I never loved a monstera fiend in human shape."

HOW HE CAME TO HER.

Then she described at length how Hawes had represented that he was a widower with only one child, and how he deceived even her father by exhibiting a bogus decree of divorce She told of the wedding, and how happy she was when they started on their bridal tour. When Hawes was arrested, on their arrival in Birmingham, he sent her to a hotel, in charge of a friend, and it was two hours before she was told of the charge against him. Speaking of this, she said:

"I could not believe it. It seemed too hor-I thought I was dreaming. That night I did not close my eyes in sleep, my brain was in a whirl. I did not know what to believe, or what to do. As long as I remaine in Birmingham I seemed to be in some sort of a horrible trance. My father had heard of it all. In fact, he had heard about it before I knew the truth, and he telegraphed me come home. I reached home at last-it seemed an age since I left it-and found a relief in tears. It was several days before I could think over the matter calmly or talk about it. Oh, it was terrible, terrible. I read the papers-read all about the finding of those bodies in the lake, of the terrible riot at the jail-everything. Read all the evidence against Mr. Hawes, my husband.

HE WAS A MONSTER. "Then my dream was over. The man I loved was dead, and in his place I saw a monwas dead. My confidence in men was destroyed forever. No man can be trusted. As long as I live I shall never place any confidence in man again. The very moment I fully realized the horrors of his terrible crime, ther I loved him no more My heart was dead The character of the man I loved was so different from that of this man Hawes, I can never think of them as one and the same."
"Do you think Hawes still loves you?"

, no. He never loved me. I am sure he could not have loved me with a pure love, or he would never have subjected me to the terrible ordeal through which I was compelled to pass. He must have known that sooner or later I would learn the truth, and I don't believe he could have thought for a moment that I would love him when I learned his true charged a passenger conductor on the Georgia Pacific railway when the murgiat Pacific railway when the murgiater is the conductor of the could be turned out. "Yes. I read about it in the papers, but it does not interest me. I don't care what he confesses now. I know what he did, and I don't care to know any more. I don't feel the slightest interest in any confession or statement he may make. I don't care to read them or hear what he says."

"You have no sympathy for him?"

THE REFORTER WAS HUMAN.

When I saw Miss Story I could understand the mad infatuation of Dick Hawes, which made him desperate, ready to do anything to win such a prize. She is of that rare type of southern beauty, of which the poets sing and novelists rave. She is not tall, but as graceful as a Greek goddess. Her halr is a beautiful glossy brown, with golden gleams here and there as the light falls on it. Her eyes are a beautiful dark brown, and are shaded with heavy, dark eyebrows and lashes. They flash with intelligence and as she talks they become wonderfully expressive. THE REPORTER WAS HUMAN.

Wyly has now been a prisoner since Friday, last, and during that time Hawes has denied and reaffirmed his story a half dozen times—so often has he changed it that no one knows what to think. When the condemned man first told the story, his brother and Sheriff Smith were deeply impressed with it. Hawes talked as only a dying man could talk, his words, his manner and his face carrying a conviction with them. At times his words were broken by distressing sobs, while tears were constantly flowing down his cheeks. Apart from the horrible death awaiting him there was that in his conduct which made his story sound true.

And yet when his attorney, Colonel Talia-ferro, asked him about the confession twenty-four hours later, Hawes denied having made

Then when brought face to face with Wyly he again repudiated the confession.

It now remains to be seen what he will say when Wyly has his preliminary trial.

Wyly's arrest has shown that he has more friends than even he knew, and if he is committed they will make a hard fight for him. They now begin to think that the railroad conductor is being persecuted, and say that his arrest several months ago was a gross outrage. Mr. McGuire, of the Westerh Railway of Alabama, under whom Wyly was working at the time of his arrest, is indignant, and says:

"John Wyly never had anything to do with that murder no more than I had and Dick Hawes is simply playing a scheme to prolong his life. I think Wyly has been badly treated and ought to be turned out. If he had been guilty, he had plenty of time to go away."

NEW YORK, February 11.—Futures were active, and at one time six to eight points lower, closing at 4 to 4.64d in Liverpool. Receipts at the ports were small and stock here were still trifling, but Liverpool did not respond so emphatically to the advance here on Monday, as had been expected, and there was considerable playing for reaction, the English, Greeks and Germans selling. Receipts this week are expected to be small. Stock in Liverpool, however, is large and British exports of cotton goods are not especially liberal.

ON THE OPENING DAY OF PARLIA-

GLADSTONE AND PARNELL SPEAK

On the Motion to Declare the Times Committee a Breach of Privilege in Publishing the Forgeries.

LONDON, February 11.-Parliament re-assembled today. In the house of commons Sir James Ferguson, under foreign secretary, promised to lay on the table at an early day papers relating to Portugal and South Africa.

Sir William Harcourt offered a motion declaring that the London Times, in publishing the forged Pigott in publishing the lorged letters, was guilty of a breach of privilege. He contended that a breach of privilege, committed during one session, could be punished during another session. He said: Since the suit for libel has been decided in Mr. Parnell, and since it has been ad-Since the suit for libel has been decided in favor of Mr. Parnell, and since it has been admitted that the letters used as cover to assault on him were forgeries, the house is afforded an absolutely sure bacis whereon to act. It is now obvious that the objection of the publication of fergeries on the day when the coercion bill had its second reading was to influence the division in parliament. It was a gross and palpable outrage on the house. A more flagrant breach of privilege could not be conceived. Some reparation should be made for this use of poisoned weapons. He urged that all sides should unite to brand with the stigma of parliamentary reprobation this practice of the art of political forgery.

brand with the stignia of parliamentary reprobation this practice of the art of political forgery.

Mr. Gladstone, who was loudly cheered as he rose, spoke in support of the motion. He said he could not consider that the Times' offense against the house had been purged by the apologies which had been made before Mr. Parnell. The commission, though Sir Richard Webster, while apologising, grossly exaggerated the original offense ["Hear, hear!"] He was surprised that Sir Richard Webster had allowed himself to be made a vehicle of such an apology. This was the earliest chance the house had had, and it was a most opportune moment for it to express its indignation over the publication of fogeries. If the conspiracy against Mr. Parnell had been successful the result to him would have been obsolute political death, and the mortal blow struck at him would have been felt throughout the Irish nation. [Cheers.]

the Irish nation. [Cheers.]

The Times had aimed to effect the judgment of the house and it had really had in that di-rection temporary success. He did not wish to dwell upon the horrible and loathsome char-acter of the whole affair. He trusted that the acter of the whole affair. He trusted that the house would vindicate its right to deal with the offense. The government owed it to itself to deal fairly toward Mr. Parnell and the Irish people for the injustice done to both through the forgeries. Surely the house should not hesitate to express its full sense of the injustice. (Cheers.)

Mr. Balfour accused Mr. Gladstone of dealing in flimsy fiction. He declared that the delay was the fault of the Gladstone party alone and said that the charge that the Times had acted with the view to influencing the judgment of the house was calumny. If that had been its object, it would have had a better prospect of success by quoting freely from Mr. prospect of success by quoting freely from Mr. Gladstone's and Sir William Harcourt's denunciations of Mr. Parnell and the land leagne. He objected to the ancient cumbrand often misused machinery of breach privilege.

Mr. Labouchieri expressed his surprise at Mr. Labouchieri expressed his surprise at the petty and paltry arguments advanced by Balfour and Gourst. It had been proved that the Times had supplied Pigott with bank notes to provide for his family within ten days of the time when he had absconded. He could understand the reticence of Smith on this subject. He could not defend his old friend Walter, and was naturally not inclined to attack him. He should remember, however, that he is the leader of the house of commons.

Bradlaugh said that as the Times assisted the government to pass its infamous measure, Bradlaugh said that as the Times assisted the government to pass its infamous measure, the breach of privilege was against the whole house, as well as against Mr. Parnell.

Sir Edward Ciarke, solicitor-general, advanced numerous precedents for the course of the government in this case, and declared that it was inconsistent with the principles of justice to prosecute the Times again, for such assections are well as well proceedings would be corollary of the adop tion of the motion

MR. PARNELL RISES.

Mr. Parnell, who was enthusiastically cheered as he took the floor, said Sir Edward Clarke had not ventured to present delay as a reason against the vote on the breach of privilege, for he well knew that Hansard's debates ilege, for he well knew that Hansard's debates contained many precedents of the house inquiring at great length and very carefully before infecting the penalty for a breach of privilege. Why did not the court grant the commission of inquiry we asked for in the beginning, that would have made it possible to prove that the letters were forgeries in forty-eight hours. I never determined not to submit the facts to the jury, but always considered it absolutely necessary to discover from whom the Times obtained its letters. I recognized, however, that it was impossible to compel the Times to divulge this in an ordinary court of justice. The case of O'Donnell vs. Walter Times to divulge this in an ordinary court of justice. The case of O'Donnell vs. Walter proved that I was justified therein. Without knowing from whom the letters came I would not have been able to prove that they were forgeries, and I should have been left with the opinion of all trained experts in the country against me. There would have been only my own word to convince the jury that certain letters advanced and printed as mine upon the great authority of the Times, were forged. I think, therefore, I was wise in what I did. I asked for the selection of a committee eccause to compel its agents to testify before such a body was the only method of forcing the Times to divulge that secret. As this was refused, we are not only method of forcing the Times to divulge that secret. As this was refused, we are not to blame for the delay. But who is to blame? Can you answer that? You wanted to use those letters as a political engine, not caring whether they were or were not forgeries. You saw that it was impossible for us to prove that they were forgeries very speedily, and that meanwhile they would be useful to you in the election. You used them to make capital against us and as a suitable engineer for obtaining an inquiry into a much wider question which you would never have obtained, apart from the letters that were forged for the purpose."

Administering a severe reproof to Sir Richard Webster, Mr. Parnell continued: "As leader of a party that must always be in

"As leader of a party that must always be in the minority here, I should be sorry to treat my best powerful opponent with the incredible meanness and the cowardice with which I have been treated by them. Even now I am further insulted by the terms of the amendments which insinuate that the forged letters may, after all, be genuine. It you believe those lettere were forged, have the courage and frankness to declare it. I move to place the word "forged" before the word "letters" in the amendment to the motion." 'As leader of a party that must always be in

Mr. Smith, in behalf of the home govern-Mr. Smith, in behalf of the home govern-ment and his party, expressed himself satisfied that Mr. Parnell had proved the letters to be forgeries, and consented that the word "forged" should be inserted as Mr. Parnell proposed.

The motion offered by Sir William Vernon Harcourt was then rejected by 200 to 212, and Sir John G. Morst's amendment was adopted. TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

AN ALABAMA RESORT FOR AGED PATRIARCHS.

Some of the Old Men Who Live in Chambers ounty-Natives Who Have Moved to Atlanta-LaFavette's Growth.

LAFAYETTE, Ala., February 11. - [Special.] LaFayette presents quite a lively appearance. It has received up to this date very near 18,000 bales of cotton, and those who ought to know best insist that it will receive during the seabales of cotton, and those who ought to know best insist that it will receive during the season 20,000 bales. For a Georgian to come across the line from Troup county to Chambers county, the transition is so gentle, the soit so similar and the growth thereon so strong in its resemblance to that in Troup county, and the manners, customs and habits of the people in Chambers county would so strongly and strikingly remind one of the manners, castoms and the habits of the people of Troup county, that the Georgian who crosses the line into Alabama, feels perfectly at home.

Some Rare old Men.

But LaFayette has a history, and so has Chambers county. A visitor may take his seat in the courthouse, and before a great while he will see a gentleman, the very picture of health, good health, as straight and as erect as an Indian; his locks are smartly frested but not snow-white. He will ask sone one near by "who is that?"

"Why, that, my dear sir, is Judge Richards—Evan G. Richards. He was born in 1806, commenced voting in 1828, voted for Andrew Jackson then, and has voted every time he has had the opportunity since, and has never failed to vote the democratic ticket. He is now eighty-four years of a,e and has perfect health. He is the father of S. M. Richards, the editor and proprietor of the LaFayette Sun. He has been a true and consistent Christian since early life."

"Why, my dear sir," says the visitor, "there comes another old man. Who is he?"
"Why, that, sir, is Mr. J. S. Prather, Sr., the father of Colonel J. S. Prather, of Atlanta, Ga. He is ninety-four years of age, lives three miles from town, and walks to town and back every week, and sometimes oftener. He, too, has good health."

TO DRAIN THE SWAMP.

The Discussion of an Important Development Question

The Discussion of an Important Development Question.

Macon, Ga., February 11.—[Special.]—Today a large number of the land owners of the swamp on Fort Valley below Macon, met at the Hotel Lanier to discuss plans for draining the swamp, utilizing the hard-wood timber for manufacturing purposes, and reclaiming the lands for agricultural uses. The scheme, if carried out, will benefit Macon greatly from a standpoint of health, and financially, and will prove a source of great profit to the projectors. The people of Macon are greatly interested in the scheme. Among those present at the meeting today were some of Macon's most representative citizen's, towit: A. G. Butts, C. J. Harris, J. S. Baxter, A. B. Small, J. W. Woodall, U. M. Gunn, R. S. Henry, Peter Harris, Peter Stubbs, E. W. Lucas, Thomas J. Lane, W. B. Chapmah, Z. B. Wade, T. S. Massenburg, E. J. and B. S. Nelson.

Mr. A. G. Butts, the well-known map publisher, was elected chairman, and Judge Charles J. Harris, of the city court, was chosen secretary. Addresses were made by several gentlemen. Mr. A. G. Butts stated that by surveys inspections, etc., it has been shown that there is five million dollars' worth of hard wood, suitable for manufacturing purposes, in the earth of the city court, was chosen secretary. Addresses white oak, popular, sweet gum, beech, tupelo, maple, hickory, ash, sycamore, birch and others. The plans for organizing and operating were discussed, towit: One to organize a joint stock company, putting in the timber interests of each land owner, as a basis for the capital stock of the company, and then put in some mills and place the timber on the market themselves. The general proposed plan of operating is as follows:

To erect one or more saw mills on each side of the Ormulgee river. Tram-ways can readily be run from the lines of the different railroads which pass through it, the East Tennessee, be run from the lines of the different railroads which pass through or near the swamp. Three roads now pass through it, the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad; the Georgia Southern and Florida, and the Southwestern in the immediate neighborhood of these lands. A floating saw mill might also be constructed on the river, which will probably be opened to navigation at an early day, and the timber could be carried out on floats or rafts. The cost of these mills will be from $3,000 to $4,000 each. There is already a large local demand for these

It is more than probable that a large car factory will also be established in Macon, and the different railroads will become large consumers of these woods.

Judge Charles J. Harris, one of the projectors of the scheme, said to The Constitution's representative:

"This land, after the timber is cut off and the surface properly drained, will produce the finest crops in the world. The income, annually from this source, would pay twenty percent on the original investment.

"Not only is all this true, but underlying the loam deposited by the river, there are inexhaustible beds of the finest clay in the world. This clay will make the very best of bricks and will also furnish the material for the finest kinds of pottery.

"N. E. Pratt, formerly state geologist, told me that there was a large strata of pure kaolin running through this swamp and extending into Twiggs and Jones counties, which was as fine for the manufacturing of pottery as any to be found in this country or in Europe. Mr. Pratt stated that he had fully tested the qualities of this deposit.

"After the timber is cut off, the land will be ties of this deposit.

FIBED BY INCENDIARIES. wo Megroes of Americus Held Charges With Arson.

AMERICUS, Ga., February 11.—[Special.]—Shortly before midnight last night; fire was discovered in the store of Brown & French, in the Hamil block. The department responded quickly to the alarm, and soon had the flames under control, but as the fire had been sm ering for some time, the fine stock was badly damaged by smoke and water. Upon inves-tigation it was discovered that the store had been fired by incendiaries, who entered the building through the cellar. Bolts of cotton cloth spread upon the floor from the oil tanks to the elevator shaft, and this had been thoroughly saturated with kerosene before the torch was applied. Suspicion at once rested upon Mon-roe Adams and Joe Dudley, two negroes of bad character, and these were lodged in jail, to await an investigation. Adams is believed to be the ringleader in the crime, as one of the firm has recently had trouble with him, and it is believed that the deed was done by him for revenge. The loss is estimated at $2,000, which is fully covered by insurance.

TWENTY NEW BUILDINGS.

Now in Course of Erection in Elberton - More

There are over twenty new dwelling houses now going up in Elbetton, and some of them are very hanesome buildings. A large corps of catpenters are kept constantly busy, and more are needed. Brick and stonemasons will be in great demand as soon as spring opens, as parties who will erect business houses, etc., prefer waiting for spring. It was thought by many last year that Elberton was overdoing herself in the building line, but every house is occupied, and the cry is still for more, and the prospect is now, that there will be more than twice as many houses erected this year than there was last.

The school in Elberton this year is much larger than ever before. Although there has been an epidemic of measles prevailing in the town that has kept many away, over 150 purely

Canton, Ga., February 11.—[Special.]—
Newscame to Canton last night that the south bound passenger on the Marietta and North Georgia railroad had been fearfully wrecked at Too Ny, seven miles south of Canton, and one man killed outright and several others seri Too Ny, seven miles south of Canton, and one man killed outright and several others seriously hart. The facts regarding the wreck are these: A deep cut is being made at Too Ny and [an engine and train of cars are kept busy there, going in a side track and back on the main line, thereby hanging the switch often during the day. Just before the down passenger arrived at Too Ny yesterday the switch had been changed, but it seems had not been carefully locked. The engine and front trucks of the baggage car passed over the switch all right, but just at that moment the "split switch" spread and the hind trucks of the baggage car and the two rear coaches ran in on the side track about three car lengths and struck a box car, which slightly careened the baggage car and frightened Dave Graham, the colored porter, and a passenger in that car who jumped off, but were only slightly hurt. The engine was "slowing up," and stopped as soon as it was discovered that the baggage car was trying to ride two tracks at the same time. Ham Holt, the mail agent, was badly scared, although the mail was but little disarranged and no lamp or ghas in the car broken. Holt, however, is easily frightened at fast running even, and came near jumping off the train a few days ago. He has but recently gotten over a spell of sickness and is very nervous and excitable. The Marietta and North Georgia has had very few accidents, and only one serious wreck, which occurred about ten years ago, in which Engineer Bellows lost his life. The road is in a fine condition, its train service good, and accommodations first-class. Superintendent Glover is a hustler and means to give the travelling public the best possible accommodations.

The plague of lamps is the breaking of chimneys; but that is unnecessary - there are chimneys that do not break! They are made of tough glass, which costs more than common glass, but not so much more as to make it impossible to sell them at the usual retail price; so the dealer gets less

HE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA By Christopher Columbus, in 1492, opened the way for many wonderful developments, but to none of greater importance to suffering humanity than Swift's Specific, the world-renowned remedy for Blood Poison.

"About three years ago I was troubled with poison in my blood, very irritating and painful boils breaking out all over my body. For two years I suffered with them, trying all sorts of remedies and doctors' prescriptions without avail. Becoming disgusted with doctors, and medicines. I had used up to this time, I concluded to try S. S. S., and the result was far beyond my expectations. A few bottles left me in better health than I had been since childhood. I consider S. S. THE GEORGIA FARMERS

REGULAR MEETING, OF THE STATE AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION.

President Northen and President Livingston Are on Hand, and an Interesting Colloquy Ensues.

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., February 11 .- [Special.]-The attendance of the agricultural convention is larger than for some time past. Or-ganization was affected this morning with more farmers than there were at Brunswick this time last year, and the noon train brought in seventy-five or a hundred more.

This meeting is honored also by the presence of some of the old veterans who have not attended all the conventions of late, among them Colonel Tom Hardeman, the long-time president of the society. Colonel Hardeman's friends say there is no political significance in his presence here, and probably they know what they are talking about, but it is easy to see that the ex-president could start a considerable political sensation if he wanted to.

His reply for the society to the speeches of welcome was chanacteristic of the man, and as usual he charmed his audience, As one of those who heard it said: "It was a charming speech." Charming speech."

The opening speech was one of welcome in behalf of the city by the mayor, Colonel G. W. Jordan. Addresses of welcome in behalf of the County Agricultural society were delivered by Mr. W. T. Hodges and Colonel John T. Waterman. Then came Colonel Hardeman's reply, and after it the semiannual address of President Northen.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS. The president's address commanded close attention and was well received. Mr. Northen thought the year would be memorable, and looked for good returns from the coming crops. Farmers have been aroused. Their first work should be to obtain freedom Their first work should be to obtain freedom from debt. Personal management on the farms was necessary. Small farmers are doing better than the large ones. Every man is entitled to reasonable profit upon his work. Improvement is needed in the handling of the cotton crop. From the time the seed is planted until the product is marketed there is waste; as long as farmers are in debt, they cannot choose cotton crop. From the time the seed is planted until the product is marketed there is waste; as long as farmers are in debt, they cannot choose their own time of sale, so as to get in a winning market. Farmers should raise their own supplies. Seventy-five per cent of the people of Georgia are engaged in agriculture, therefore their welfare controls the whole. The people should be educated. Out of education great results will grow. The race question is not one raised by the negroes. They do not ask for social equality. The only possibility, therefore, for a problem of any kind whatever, will be found in the irritation and incendiary agitation by those who are willing to disturb society, and disorganize the government for personal ends and political power. Whenever it presents itself to its solution we should bring all our discretion, our patience and our better judgment. Again, the education of the negro has gone far beyond his evangelization, and in that much, he is unbalanced and not adapted to duties demanded of him. In the interest of humanity, in the interest of society, as well as the interest of good government, throw about him such safeguards and such restraints as will lead him into better light and better purposes, and God. good government, throw about him such safe-guards and such restraints as will lead him into better light and better purposes, and God, by the inspiration of a better life, will Him-self solve a problem, the mystery of which He has hidden.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON PRESENT. Colonel L. F. Livingston is here, shaking hands with his friends, and will address a gathering of alliancemen tomorrow.

There is a sharp sprinkling of statehouse officers, including Commissioner Henderson, Comptroller General Wright, Hon. Mark Harden, clerk of the house. Professor H. C. White, the state chemist, arrived today at noon, and on the same train was Colonel R. J. Redding, of the experiment station.

SOME POLITICAL SKIRMISHING.
There is some amusing skirmishing going on in the convention between Mr. Norther and Colonel Livingston.

This afternoon it was a conflict of views on farming and state statistics. There was no blood spilt, but the fencing was highly enterblood spilt, but the feneing was highly enter-taining. It is said Eugene Speer will run-against Mark Harden for house clerk, and has made a combination. Mr. Harden appears to be sawing wood. I don't hear much about Mr. Nesbit, Judge Henderson's opponent, except that he has a following in southwest Georgia. Tonight I heard of a movement to put Dr. Newman against the commissioner. No other gubernatorial candidate has made any tracks about here.

The afternoon session was devoted to Colonel R. J. Redding's report of the experiment station. Colonel Redding said there was nothing so far to report, as no crops had been harvested. He showed that the farm of 130 acres—half in the woods—has been divided into acre squares, marked with iron stakes, the land representing the average middle Georgia.

One acre is laid off in drains thirty feet apart, with drains made of pine poles covered with pine tops, which permits water to percolate through. The expense is only that of digging a ditch. A second kind is plank in pig-trough shape, and the third is the regular tile drain. Colonel Redding called attention to the fact that there are no tile drains manufactured in Georgia. He was especially impressed with the industry of the women. W. G. C.

THE COTTON MARKET.

A Decline Yesterday—The Causes Which Led to it.

For some reason unknown to outsiders the cotton market suffered a decline of five to seven points yesterday, as compared with closing of the day before, and eight to twelve points from the highest reached during the day.

Liverpool opened quiet and steady for spot at unchanged prices, and from 3 to 4-64d higher for futures, closing firm at the advance.

shape, and the third is the regular the drain. Colonel Redding called attention to the fact that there are no tile drains manufactured in Georgia.

Major Ryals, the big market-gardener of Chatham, says tile factories would pay handsomely in Georgia. The whole state of Ohio is dotted with them, and one farm of four hundred acres has eight miles of tile drains.

Colonel Redding described in detail his experiment in oats with cotton seed, cotton seed meal, and no fertilizer, showing the value of the seed with and without hulls and oil. One of the most important experiments is to determine whether it pays to use nitrogenous manures, ammoniates on corn. It pays to use cotton seed, and the question is whether all the constituents of the seed are used as plant food by corn. He had thought all three constituents of cotton seed, nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash were utilized by growing corn. The importance of this question is shown by the fact that the nitrogen of a seven million bale cotton crop is worth $29,-00,000. If this is not necessary to the use of seed as fertilizer, this immense amount will be experiment. Other experiments are to determine what soils need or do not need potash or phosphates to determine the relative advantages of deep and shallow culture, draining, etc. Colonel Redding said the Ohio farmers told him they could not afford to farm without underdraining. Colonel Redding said a fly had appeared in the wheat, but he could not tell what connection it had with the grain. He had sent it to the entomologist. The wood drains are three feet deep, and Colonel Redding thinks they will last twenty years.

As harp attack was made on the policy of

A sharp attack was made on the policy of the experiment station in deciding not to test agricultural implements and all brands of guano. The matter was sprung by Mr. Hunnicutt, of Senoia, and a fusilade of questions was fired at Colonel Redding by Messrs. Livingston, De Wolf and Hunnicutt, who made it warm for a little while. Redding stood his ground, kept cool and had the satisfaction of seeing his position indorsed by the convention. In reply to Mr. Hunnicutt, Colonel Redding said if they undertook to test agricultural implements, they would have all their fence corners full. AN ATTACK ON THE STATION.

"Which would be better," said Colonel Livingston, "for you to be bothered a little, or for us to be crowded."

"You can do as you please," replied Colonel Redding. "You would have more room. I have been offered all the fertilizer I want to test. We could order three tons of each, and get all we wanted in that way. The station might be under obligation to the manufecturers."

"Is not your board above suspicion?" asked Colonel Livingston. "Cannot we assume that experiments are always honestly made."

"I think in some cases there might be a violent assumption," said Colonel Redding, "and we want to put outselves above suspicion."

"Do you propose to neglect the interest of the farmer to put yourself personally above suspicion?" asked Colonel DeWolf. "Cannot the board be trusted? Is not the character of an officer equal to that?"

"We propose," replied Colonel Redding, "to take the materials used in the commercial fertilizers, and test them for you, and we cover the whole field. Any fertilizer made of any-thing outside the materials we use, is a fraud

"Why not take the brands we use, and show their agricultural value?" said Colonel Livingston. "We have the commercial value shown by Professor White's analysis. Let the station forever settle the agricultural value of each brand for us. It is too expensive for us to test them" of each brand for us. It is not expensive us to test them."

"Ah," said Colonel Redding; "that is just what we do. We can't test all the brands, but we test a compound with analyses the same as other well known brands."

"But why can't you use the stuff we use?" insisted Colonel Livingston.

"Too many brands," suggested Colonel

"Too many brands," suggested Colonel Hardeman sotto yoce, and Colonel Redding

Hardeman sotte yoce, and Colonel Redding made the same reply.

Mr. Hunnicutt diverted to the agricultural implements, and said millions of dollars were spent by the farmers experimenting with machinery. He called attention to a harrow being sold for three prices because men went to the expense of carrying the machine to the farmer's door. He thought the experiment station should stand between him and just such humburgery as that. Mr. Hunnicutt then moved that the experiment station be requested to test fertilizers and implements. The motion was received with some applause.

Colonel Livingston, still unconquered, gave notice that he would move in the morning to reconsider.

TOBACCO AS A CROP.

Dr. Samuel Hape, of the farmer's excursion, which invaded Ohio, called attention to the value of tobacco as a crop. He said after visiting the Ohio vineyards, and reading the reports of foreign wines, Georgia could produce wines better for her people, and of equal flavor and bring in an immense revenue. He did not think the mere intelligent and more reliable labor of the north paid any better per cent on the investment than ours.

Mr. R. A. Nesbit, secretary of the convention, suplemented Dr. Hape's report with

Mr. R. A. Neshit, secretary of the conven-tion, suplemented Dr. Hape's report with descriptions of Ohio farming, cattle. etc. Colonel Waddell in his report on the Ohio trip, said the negro was settling our labor prob-lem for himself. He would be slow to advise Georgia farmers to follow the western method entirely, but their grass culture and care of cattle was beyond all praise.

cattle was beyond all praise.

THE QUESTION OF GRASS.

President Northen said the best returns of that state, per acre, had been beaten in Georgia. Captair McPhane, of Worth county, had made a return of $200 on every acre he had last year. For a time he tried to kill all the grass he found, but now he took care of it. He saw no clover in Ohio better than his own. We have the advantage in grasses. Bermuda makes a sod the cattle hoofs do not tear up, and it protects the other grasses. He said the Ohio people told him not to make cheese as long as he could get thirty cents a pound for butter. That settled the cheese question here for a long time. Good butter will bring thirty cents for a long time to come. At best there was as much science in butter making as in anything else. It took him three years to learn how.

Ohio Men Coming Down.

OHIO MEN COMING DOWN.

how.

OHIO MEN COMING DOWN.

The president read a letter from Mr. Glessner, saying an excursion of Ohio farmers and business men would leave that state on February 24th. In reply to a question Mr. Northen said he could not use cotton seed to make good butter. He had never tried meal.

Colonel Livingston said Ohio seemed to be a God's country, yet that state had a mortgaged indebtedness of $700,000,000; while in Georgia it was only $131,000,000. A man can make more in Georgia with a black negro and a mule than on the white labor of Ohio. How is that? Mr. Northen referred to his own statement that a man could make more on a farm in Georgia than in Ohio. He had stated at the Waycross meeting that the mortgaged in debtedness of Georgia was $40,000,000, but since then it had increased to $130,000,000. The loan companies began in the west and were now at work on us. Possibly this state would some day owe $750,000,000 if it had the resources to mortgage.

ATTACKING NORTHEN'S FACTS.

Mr. Hunnicutt also attacked Mr. Northen's facts. He differed with the president on cheese, and thought butter would not bring thirty cents a pound. "Mr. President," said he, "the gentleman might not know what good butter was. He could not make It without the use of a thermometer."

Dr. Hape said cheese netted the farmer only six and a half to eight cents a gallon for milk. Mr. Hunnicutt said the bacteria of disease could live longer in butter than in cheese. Mr. Moses thought favorably of cheese.

President Northen said Mr. Herrick, the cheese man of Wellington, Ohio, would devote four months to cheese-making in Georgia, and charge nothing but his expenses, if any gonthews wished to test the pasteria of any content was the case of the pasteria of the cheese mather was the case of the cheese mather in Georgia, and charge nothing but his expenses, if any gonthews wished to test the pasteria of cheese man of Wellington, One, would devote four mouths to cheese-making in Georgia, and charge nothing but his expenses, if any gentleman wished to test the matter.

Mr. Barrett, of Richmond, said we fell behind Ohio in farming on account of slipshod methods. Brains won where muscles failed. The labor of Ohio is more intelligent than that of Georgia. He was especially impressed with

It is proposed to go right to work, secure a suitable lot at once for the site of the building, and open the subscription lists. There are in Atlanta between five and six hundred offliated Masons, and probably as many unaffiliated. If they subscribe liberally the project will go through without a halt.

As the subscription lists will be open to citizens as the subscription lists will be open to citizens generally, whether Masons or not, no trouble is apprehended in raising the sum necessary to erect the building, and it is estimated that the rentals will bring in an income sufficient to pay at least six per cent interest on the stock.

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 12, 1890.

A Good Suggestion.

An esteemed correspondent at Eufaula, Alabama, writes to THE CONSTITUTION, inclosing the following newspaper clipping: A few weeks ago Mr. Gray, a resident of Fitchburg, Massachusetts, and for some months in Eufaula, as the agent of the Thompson-Houston electric light works, wrote a long letter to an old friend in his town, giving his impression of the south, recounting pleasantly his experiences in hunting and other sports, and winding up with his impression of the "race problem." as it is bils impression of the "race problem," as it called. Mr. Gray is a republican, and his frier in Massachusetts is a republican, and the latt turned the letter over to the editor of the reput been paper in the town. The republican editor printed all about the hunts and his other experi-ences, but didn't give Mr. Gray's opinions on the race question since he had been south. Mr. Gray's friend wrote him about like this:

DEAR TOM: Kellogg printed your hunts, but be didn't think you knew a continental about the negro, and besides, he is afraid to print your truthfulstatements. He prefers to edit that question from a distance.

This tells its own story, but it has set our correspondent to thinking. It has occurred to him that it would be a good idea to hold, in Atlanta, within three months, say at the laying of the cornerstone of the Grady monument, a convention of northern men who have lived in the south one year or longer. Ten delegates from each southern state would be enough. After their deliberations, the convention should issue an address to the people of the north, giving its views upon the south and southern questions. It would be a peace convention in the line of Mr. Grady's work, and would do more good in publishing the truth to the world than any other body of men could do.

Our Eufaula friend's suggestion is a good one. Each southern state could easily furnish ten representative northerners. The convention would not be in session long, and the expense would be a trifle. Such an assemblage would send a message north that would ring across the continent and silence the clamor of our enemies.

The Western Situation. The governor of Kansas has been petitioned to call the legislature together to devise measures of relief for the farmers.

The petition of the Farmers' Alliance says: Whereas the shrinkage in values on both real and personal property in the state of Kansas in the past two years has caused very great linancial embarrassment among the farmers of our state, and in many instances the farmers have become number by research these states and the state of the st able, by reason of these shrinkages, to prevent nes in foreclosures, which are increasing proceedings in foreclosures, which are increasing to an alarming extent; we, the undersigned, electors of Kansas, therefore respectfully petition your excellency to call a special session of the .egislature of Kansas for the purpose of providing for the relief of our farmers, giving the mortgager of a homestead at least two years in which to occupy, enjoy and redeem, if possible, after sale of mortgaged premises, and to provide, also, for a stay of recent on all indements on promisory notes. execution on all judgments on promissory notes and mortgaged bonds for a reasonable time after

And yet tremendous crops were raised in Kansas last year. What is the nature of the trouble out there?

It is not easy to answer this question briefly. The petitions sent to the governor speak of high freight rates on corn, the decline of the population, the failure of mortgage loan companies, and general poverty.

Other western states are making similar complaints. It seems that the mortgage business has been overdone, and the great eastern land loan companies have come to the conclusion that extreme caution is necessary in placing money in the west.

The great west has been overworked. Its growth has been stimulated by the railroad companies and immigration agencies, and the agricultural interest has become unwieldy. There is not diversity enough in the pursuits of the people-not manufacturing enough to build up the necessary mar-

It will be remarked that the steady and natural growth of the south has been exempt from the evils complained of in the west Capital is seeking investment here; people are coming and none are leaving. not petition for special sessions of the legislature to relieve the farmers or any other class. Our diversified interests are progressing under natural laws, without undue pressure or speculative methods.

Horace Greeley's advice, "Go west, young man," is out of date. Everywhere the cry is. "Go south!"

The Proposed Rules.

It is more than probable that the rules reported by a majority of the house committee will be adopted, with few if any changes.

The rules are objected to by the democrats on the ground that they are tyrannical and contrary to established precedents. Taking the worst possible view of them, they will be better than no rules. If they turn out to be thoroughly bad, oppressing the minority, and facilitating partisan legislation, the country will remember that the sole responsibility rests with the republicans.

The house must have rules, and bad ones are better than none. It should not be forgotten that the proposed code is not to endure forever. The democrats can very well afford to wait patiently for the next congressional election. If, in the meantime, the republican rules turn out to be unjust, and contrary to the spirit of our institutions, the trick of the party in power will be resented by the people at the ballot box.

The republican partisans in the house reckon without their usual shrewdness when they assume that their party will solidly sustain them, right or wrong. During Mr. Cleveland's first campaign the fact was demonstrated that thousands of republicans, headed by influential leaders and newspapers in the north, are ready to vote with the democrats when they are satisfied that their own party is plainly in the wrong. We may expect at the next election to see wholesale desertions from the party of the administration. There is a growing belief in the north that business is a bigger thing than politics. Northern capital and enterprise are marching southward, and there will be an emphatic protest against any legislation tending to inure their interest

Speaker Reed and his comrades may make things very unpleasant with their rules. But their time is short. The prosperity of the north within the past fifteen years has become largely dependent upon southern progress, and no injury can be done to this section without injuring the other. If the republican majority in the house blindly rushes on in its rule or ruin fashion, it will have a heavy account to settle shortly with the voters of the country.
So, let us have the rules, good or bad.

They are bound to help us in the end.

Southern Cities. When the revolutionary war broke out, everal southern cities gave promise of keepng pace with their northern rivals. Lack of enterprise, and the agricultural tendency of the south, checked the growth of cities, and when the last census was taken, New Orleans and Louisville were the only two with upwards of 100,000 population, unless we count Baltimore. The New Orleans Picayune does not think it likely that the coming census will show a greater number of large cities than we had ten years ago. Richmond, Atlanta, Memphis and Nashville will climb up nearly to the 100,000 mark, but several states, and vast acres of territory, will be without anything like a big city. Our contemporary sees what we predicted long ago-that as we increase the manufacture of the products of our fields, forests and mines, large cities will necessarily be built, our markets will be multiplied, and our farmers will find a profitable home demand for everything they can raise. It takes time to build cities, but the drift of things is in that direction, and the end of another generation will see several large centers of population in this region. A backward glance at what has been accomplished since the war will emphasize this

A Touch of Winter.

The hotel men down in Florida are confident that the winter will wind up with a couple of months of cold weather. So they are still looking out for northern visitors.

They may be right. It is said that the vinter of 1828 in Georgia was exactly like the present one. In February the mild weather came to an end, and then for a couple of months there was a flurry of snow and sleet and ice.

We may catch it yet. There is plenty of time for bad weather, and it may extend far into April,

It will be some time before 'we can snap our fingers at the coal dealers and pull off

North Dakota's Lottery.

The action of the North Dakota house in indefinitely postponing the lottery bill is one way of killing it. All over the country there is a strong public sentiment against lotteries, and it would be a step backward to legalize them in North Dakota or any other state.

The lottery idea tempts people to neglect honest work and look out for wealth which they have not earned. It is in line with gambling and some of the worst forms of speculation.

North Dakota must be built up by hard work, and not by a lottery wheel. The new state cannot afford to have a swarm of idle loafers, living by their wits, and looking forward to the drawing of a prize. Lottery prizes are few and far between. Even when one is drawn, it is a question whether it benefits the lucky man. Money obtained in such a way generally goes easily. The record of waste, extravagance and dissipation caused by the lottery epidemic would assume frightful proportions if it could be correctly pre-

At this time it is more important than ever to impress the youth of the land with the great lessons of honesty, industry and economy. The lottery is the enemy of these three virtues. It i; the workingman's foe. It is a social evil.

The policy of the law is to encourage thrift and discourage its opposite. Under no circumstances has any legislature the shadow of an excuse for reviving this curse

An Old Man's Crime.

When a boy like Jesse Pomeroy commits an atrocious murder all the world is shocked. Total depravity united with extreme youth is horrible to contemplate.

But how is it when the case is reversed and a very old man sheds blood without cause? Near Winnipeg, Mauitoba, the other day, old man Morton aged ninety-five, murdered his son and daughter-in-law. A trifling dispute took place, and the old man told his son to shoot or take his chances. The son paid no attention to the threat, and the father shot him through the heart. Then, reloading the gun, he killed his daughter-in-law as she bent over the dead body of her husband. Morton, despite his age, is clear-headed He knew what he was doing, and calmly save that his act was intentional People said that Jesse Pomerov was too young to hang. Will they now say that Morton is too old for the gallows? Will it not be said that the revolting nature of his crime is proof of his insanity. It is an interesting question. One thing, however, is certain-we cannot afford to turn either babies or centenarians loose on the country when they are too quick on the trigger. If they are too young or too old to hang, they must be locked up for life. With Morton a life sentence will be only a matter of a few years. If it hastens his death, so much the better.

A Scourge of the Cities.

Dr. Janeway, a New York physician, says the prevalence of pneumonia is due to highssure life in the cities, where so many people live in rooms overheated and poorly ventilated. Late hours, excessive drink and other causes that debilitate people make them ready victims of the disease.

This sounds plausible, but the epidemic form of la grippe, which has so often resulted in pneumonia this winter, is not confined to cities, though the concentration of population has given it the largest prevalence and fatality. News comes from the country districts of Georgia that hale and hearty men, living in houses above the suspicion of steam heat, are attacked by la grippe and suffer with it just as we do in Atlanta. Once attacked by the grip, the man who exposes himself is most likely to have pneumonia. That is the invariable observation of physicians, and our out-of-town friends need not fancy that a crack in the wall is any protection for a grip patent against pneur

In general, however, and taken aside from the present epidemic, which seems to be favored by atmospheric conditions not yet explained, pneumonia appears to attack the hothouse plants first. The soldier who slept in the rain would have died if he had been taken from an overheated dwelling to sleep on the cold ground. Other sanitary conditions in cities may have something to do with pneumonia. Investigations provoked by the alarming increase of diphtheria in certain parts of New England have revealed a relation between that disease and bad drainage. It may be that the pneumonia bacillus is more easily propagated in cities than in the pure air of the country, and that steam heating and tight houses prepare the material for him to work on.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean publishes an ap seal to the charitable to raise a fund for the suffering members of the family of old John Brown, who was hanged at Harper's Ferry. From time to time during the past thirty years, similar appeals have been made. The Browns' have been helped, not once, nor twice, but many times Help has never done them any good, nor never will. The "second Christ," as some of his adnirers called John Brown-the "modern Spartan," as Victor Hugo termed himthat "great and good man," as the New England Magazine speaks of him, seems not only to have borne the brand of Cain himself, but to have transmitted it to his child-

From the day when old man Brown first began to sow the seeds of wholesale murder, the entire family seemed to be marked out for poverty, suffering and destruction. We honestly believe that these miserable people are beyond all human help. They can neither keep nor profitably use money when it is given to them. For a generation they have been petted and aided by fanatics and philanthropists, but whenever they have been pulled up one step they have fallen back two.

We say nothing about retribution or the workings of providence in this case. All that we say about it is that a family with such an origin and such a history, so steeped in crime and disaster, cannot now, by the aid of a charity fund, be made respectable, self-respected and self-sustaining. The entire brood will die out, and die in shame and

The history of the Brown family is worth studying.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE says: "The trouble between England and Portngal has reached an acute—a very acute—stage. Permit me to suggest that you correct one statement in the article, namely:

"While no one knew it at the time, the conductor who first touched the wire ran a great risk of instant death, because, in falling, the guy wire had crossed the electric light wire. If the insulation had been burned through, a circuit would have been made, and the entire current of 12,000 volts used by the electric light company would have passed into the body of the person who touched it."

In the first place, the guy-wire could not fall across an electric light wire for the reason that there is no electric light wire under it.

Secondly, there is not to my knowledge, in any city in the world, a street circuit on which a pressure of 12,000 volts is maintained, and there is none in this city on which there is even a quarter of that pressure. ent in the article, namely

The only circuits in this city, a shock from which would be in any way dangerous, are the arc light circuits, and it is an utter impossibility for any of the street railway wires to fall on these wires.

On the very next day after West was carried from his home county jail, his old mother appeared at the courthouse with the money to pay his fine aud costs. "I am a tinner and cornice maker by trade, and on the 10th of December last I was employed on a building in Aberdeen, Miss. At about 7 o'clock on the morning of the 10th, I went up on the roof of the building to remove some canvas and rubbish preparatory to beginning work for the day, and in doing so I cut a string which was attrached to the sheating, not knowing that it was strung across the street and supported an effigy of Secretary Proctor. About 11 o'clock on that morning a man who had been employed laying the floor on the second story came up the ladder to the scuttle hole, and calling his fellow workman and myself, said that he was disposed to be a friend to us, and explained that we had unfastened the rope to which hung an effigy of Secretary Proctor, and it was his ad-workman and myself, said that he was disposed to be a friend to us, and explained that we had unfastened the rope to which hung an efligy of Secretary Proctor, and it was his advice that we should leave town before that night, for if the boys, who were very mad, caught us there he said, they would "tan us good." This was the first knowledge or intimation which I had had that by unfastening the rope I had allowed the etligy to drop into the street. I told Miller that if there was to be trouble if I remained, I would leave town that afternoon, as soon as possible after I received what was due me from my employer. We talked the matter over until dinner time, when I went down the ladder.

"As I was passing out of the building a man named Will McDonald, whom I had known since I went to Aberdeen five weeks before, and regarded as my friend, stepped up, and calling me to one side, inquirisd whether I had made the remark, which had been attributed to me—that no one could burn an effigy in that town while I remained there. I answered in the negative, and told him that I had not been off of the roof since early in the morning. He thereupon said to me: 'You can't buildoze us southern people in that way,' and struck me a hard blow in the face with a bugzy whip which he had in his hand, cutting my nose and almost closing my eye. I threw up my hands to protect my face, and he then struck me several blow on the back and shoulders, and while this was taking place a large crowd had gathered and shouted: 'Lay it on to him.'

"I was in my shirt sleeves at the time, and the crowd gathering around me I was unable to get away, and it was unsafe to try and defend myself. When he had become tired and quiet he told me that I must leave town right away. I asked to be permitted to get my clothes and what money was due me. To this he consented, and walked with me down to our shop. As we were passing along, a man came up behind us and with a large hickory stick, which he carried, repeatedly thrust it towards me, at the same time shouting, came to the station at 11:30 o'clock that night to see that I was not further molested. I understand that McDonald's fine was paid by the people of the town. The day following my arrival in Memphis there was a funeral procession in honor of Jefferson Davis, and fearing bodily harm, I purchased a pair of goggles which I wore to disguise myself."

CHATTANOGA, Tenn., February 11.—[Special.]—At 7 o'clock this morning, passenger train No. 3, of the East Tennessee main line, and No 13, of the Georgia division, collided about seven miles east of this city. No. 3 was twenty minutes late, coming in from Bristol' but the message was transmitted to the conductor of No. 13 as two hours and twenty minutes late. Hence No. 13 was trying to get to Oolewah ahead of No. 3, which could easily have been done had No. 3 been as late as reported. The engines were both completely wrecked, and the tender of one telescoped the mail car of No. 3. Engineers and firemen saved themselves by jumping, and no one on either train was hurt.

Two Cases That Excite the Indignation of the Public.

Yesterday afternoon a negro was arrested and carried through Alabama street by three policemen. He was dragged over belgian blocks and along the pavement, as though he had been a brute. Quite a number of citizens doing business on that street felt outraged, and said that so long as there is a patrol wagon in Atlanta no such spectacle should be allowed on the public streets.

Another terrible scene was that of a drunken negro who was brought from the Kimball house by two policemen. He had resisted an officer, and had been clubbed over the head, causing his head and face to be covered with blood, which flowed profusely from the wound. Ladies who had just got off the dummy, were greeted with the sight of the man, bleeding and wild, and they took the middle of the street.

Harry Frank, the cut rate man.

THEY GIVE A GERMAN IN HONOR OF THE EXPOSITION SHAREHOLDERS DECIDE NOT TO SELL ANY LAND

proved and Is Not Used for Exposition Purposes,

There was an important meeting of the shareholders of the exposition company last exening at the Traders' Bank building.

Twenty-seven shareholders were present, representing in person and by proxy about 300 shares of $100 each. President James R. Wylie presided. The question to be decided was a very important one-important to the general public as well as to the exposition shareholders. TO SELL OR NOT TO SELL. The exposition company owns about one undred and ninety acres of land, one hundred acres being fenced in. There is a debt on the property amounting to about $22,000, which debt is bonded at six, per cent.

About ninety acres of the one hundred and ninety is unimproved and idle, and will never be used for exposition purposes.

The question was—would it pay the stock-holders better to sell the idle land, ninety acres, more or less, getting rid of the indectedness and leaving a balance for improvements on the remainder; or to hold the property in bulk, paying interest on the indebtedness, and wait for the profit in the increasing value of the land?

The issue was brought up fairly by two resolutions, the first one by Mr. C. A. Collier. It was to authorize the dierctors to sell, at their discretion, the idle land not used for extheir discretion, the idle land not used for ex-position purposes, or so much of it as thep saw fit, the part sold not to exceed ninety acros. Mr. Jack Spalding was the author of the other resolution. Its sense was that no sale be now made or authorized.

be now made or authorized.

argued at some length in favor of his substitute. He showed how the property had increased in value as improvements were made in that direction; that it was now accessible by two good streets, well paved, and by two street railway lines; and that Bleckley avenue was to be extended and graded and other improvements made, all enhancing the value of the property.

was to be extended and graded and other improvements made, all enhancing the value of the property.

"It costs us six per cent on $22,000 to hold this idle iand," said he. "but it is enhancing in value at the rate of 30 per cent a year. Our policy is to hold it."

Mr. Humphreys Castleman followed, agreeing with Mr. Spalding that to sell the land would be putting money into the pockets of speculators, and that is would be much better to hold every acre of land.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Mr. Collier spoke for his resolution in favor of selling some of the land.

Mr. Jake Haas also favored the sale.

"To sell ten acres this year," said he, "is to enhance the value of the adjoining property. Then sell ten acres next year, and ten the next year. One hundred and ninety acres is too large a bulk to hold for an increase of value. Of course the people we sell to will profit by the purchase, but where they profit on a little bit we profit on a great deal. To hold that entire tract is to scare off settlements in the vicinity. The property will slowly and surely increase in value, but it would pay us better to help settle up that neighborhood. I am in favor of authorizing the directors to sell part of the idle land."

Mr. H. L. Wilson rather favored the plan of selling a part.

"There is a pressing demand for property of

Mr. H. L. Wilson rather favored the plan of selling a part.

"There is a pressing demand for property of that sort," said he, "and we would get a good figure. Seven or eight acres very near there sold for $20.000 not long ago. I have an order from the board of county commissioners now for the opening and extension of Bleckley avenue. I think there are fifteen acres along the proposed extension that can be sold for $700 to $1,000 an acre. I agree with Mr. Haas that the settling up of a part will greatly enhance the value of the remainder."

THEY DECIDE NOT TO SELL. The matter was discussed freely and fully peter the rote was taken.

The question was then put, resulting in the adoption of Mr. Spalding's substitute.

That means that every acre of the land is to be held, at least for some time to come.

The meeting then adjourned. THE DEFEATED MORMONS.

the Want of Provisions.

Grand Forks, N. D., February 11.—Hon. H. Thelgeson, state commissioner of agriculture, has just issued an address to the public, explaining the situation in the drought-stricken counties, at some length, and making an appeal for assistance. He says the suffering for the want of provisions, clothing, fuel, and feed for stock in several counties is unprecedented, and needs some authoritative explanation. This explanation is, in brief, that unfavorable seasons have prevented settlers in newer portions of the state from becoming at once self-sustaining, or the accumulation of any reserve to tide them over such misfortunes. The crops of 1888 and 1889 were failures, and it is the settlers of the last four or five years that are now needy. The state itself is unable to provide for these people, because of the unsettled condition of land titles and other values which afford the basis for raising revenue.

CHICAGO, February 11.—A dispatch from Todden. North Dakota, says: Between 800 and 1,000 Indians, credited to Devil's Lake agency, are wholly destitute of clothing and in the last stage of starvation. Unless furnished with food, clothing and medicine at once the Indians will die like dogs. Disease has brough fully one-half of them to the verge of the grave, and the recent inclement weather enhanced their sufferings. Indian Agent Vramsie has issued an appeal for aid for these Indians whose distress, he says, arises from a cause identical with those affecting the white settlers in a large portion of Dakota—unfavorable seasons and the failure of crops. The interior department can afford no relief until congress makes an apprepriation for this purpose. The agent asks for money, food and clothing, clothing being especially lacking.

The Filing of a Petition in the Superior A Delightful Affair at the Kimball Last Court Brings Up What Was at the Time Quite a Sensational Divorce.

The german given at the Kimball last night by the Dixie club, in honor of the Nine O'Clocks, was one of the most delightful and most highly en-joyed affairs of the season. There were several "Mrs. M. E. Kates." After wearing that name for almost a quar-ter of a century, the owner now asks the court of Fulton county to relieve her from it, and restore to her that of her maidenhood, Miss M. E. Miss Anna Coates, of Baltimore, will arrive in athens this week, and will visit the family of Dr. H. C. White. Three children—two girls and a boy, the eldest twenty years, and the youngest sixteen—these also ask relief from the name of their father, and permission to wear that of their mother. The name of George W. Kates was, several years ago quite well known in Atlanta, and throughout the south among a certain class of Miss Pauline Harris has returned home, much to the delight of her many friends. Hon. H. W. J. Ham, of Gainesville, was in the He was a luminous light in the spiritualistic army, editor of the "Light For Thinkers," an official organ of southern spiritualists, during

A local sensation was created one day by the filing of divorce proceedings by Mr. Kates. This developed as the case proceeded, showing up a rather sensational state of affairs in the Kates household.

Master Milton Bacon gave a delightful luncheon and theater party to a few of his little friends yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Bacon's pretty suite of rooms at Mrs. Fort's were decorated in roses and ferns, while the table ornamentations were entirely of white lilacs and hyacinths. Baskets of fruit and conserves in dainty cut glass were scattered here and there over the table, and the place of each guest was marked with a delicately colored box of bonboniere candy bearing his name, and the inscription "Little Lord Fauntleroy," with the date. One of the prettiest features was an exquisite little bouquet of white lilacs at each little girl's place, while her cavalier had a corresponding boutonniere of the same flower; the gift of the popular florist, Mr. Glazier. The divorce trial was an interesting one. A separation was finally granted, Kates agreeing to contribute so much per month for a year toward the support of his youngest child, all three of the children having been awarded to the custody of the mother by the court.

The granting of the divorce made still other sensational developments. On the very day of the decree, Kates took unto himself another wife. This is set forth in the petition entered by Mrs. Kates yesterday. It after-wards transpired that Kates had been smitten with the charms of wife No. 2 for a long time before he wedded her, and that all the trouble was on this account. He had worked up the

Mrs. Kates and her children remained living in Atlanta. In her petition Mrs. Kates says her divorced husband never contributed a cent to the support of the youngest child, as he had agreed to do. She recites the fact of his hasty second marriage, and other circumstances connected with the case. She says Kates left her and her children in needy circumstances, but that together they have struggled on and are now striving to lay up a competency. Mrs. Joe Levyson, of Brooklyn, a lady of rare beauty and many accomplishments, is visiting Mrs. Henry Frank.

She refers to the trial of the divorce case in She refers to the trial of the divorce case in Fulton superior court, and asks in conclusion that the name she bore before her marriage be restored to her and also to the three children. That name was Miss M. E. LaVette.

My disease (psorasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my hails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. THE STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

New YORK, February 11.—The stock market to-day, owing to a lack of local transactions of any sort, was dull, and left to its natural bent. It showed a firm front with extremely narrow fluctua tions, though in a few cases there were material advances made. This state of affairs continued until near the end of the afternoon, when word came from Chicago that the presidents association had adjourned after placing notices of with-drawal of Northwestern and Union Pacific on file. The committee for the formulation of a plan by which those roads would be kept in the associa-tion made no report, and on the street this was variously interpreted. Later however, a report that the freight agent had resolved to make a reduction of ten per cent in all rates between Missouri river and Chicago caused a heavy selling movement which changed the character of the market comwhich changed the character of the market com-pletely and dullness and stagnation gave place to great activity and a decided weakness all over the room. An opinion that the roads propose to force a speedy settlement of difficulty which caused the cut gained many believers as the fighting is never cut gained many believers as the fighting is never of long duration when cut made is a severe one, as in this case. The bears were heavy sellers on the break and little long stock came out, excepting stocks of roads immediately affected by the cut. Some of the specialties, however, made marked declines. In the morning the announcement that the Manhattan Elevated intended to pay its next quarter dividend in cash instead of scrip was somewhat of a surprise to the street, it being the first cash payment for the vear. The it being the first cash payment for the year. The change was attributed to Mr. Gould, and was in terpreted as evidence that he is with the bulge on the market at the present.

The opening of the market was dull and firm, and some new buying. Prices fractionally higher in the first hour, with sugar leading the upward movement, which extended to about one per cent. Dullness and stagnation was the only feature in the general list after that, though some weakness in Wisconsin Central brought that stock down. Toward 2 p. m. Chicago dispatches began to show effects, and activity and weakness became univereffects, and activity and weakness became universal. Prices moved off very rapidly, and the close was active and weak at the lowest prices reached.

Final changes are almost all in the direction of lower figures, and Tennessee coal lost two per cent., C. C. C. and St. Louis 1¾, Chesapeake and Ohio, firsts, preferred, 1½, Chesapeake and Ohio, firsts, preferred, 1½, Colorado coal, 1¼, Missouri Pacific, and northern Pacific, preferred, each 1½, and Reading 1 per cent. 6,390 Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular. Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, February 11—[Special]—The hopes of the buils that the bureau report of yesterday would electrify the foreign markets and give fresh impetus to cotton speculation abroad have been disappointed. The Liverpool market opened this morning quiet at an advance of 2@3-64d for futures, but spot sales were only 5,000 bales, and private cables report the failure of an important firm of cotton manufacturers in Lancashire and a decidedly flat market for both cloths and yarns in Manchester. The result has been a feverish and unsettled market for contracts here, the undertone throughout the day being weak and the buying almost entirely for account of outsiders, who were freely supplied by the continued liquidation of the long interest referred to in our yesterday's letter. Some reaction from the lowest prices of the day was established upon the news of a very light interior movement at Augusta and St. Louis. Port receipts are also light, and the total movement for the week thus far does not much exceed 50,000 bales, and at present hardly likely to reach a total of 105,000 bales for the entire week. The quantity of cotton pointed toward this market is increasing, and conservative estilikely to reach a total or 105,000 pales for the entire week. The quantity of cotton pointed toward this market is increasing, and conservative estimates of the tenders of newly certificated cotton on the first proximo are about ten thousand bales, It is, however, generally conceded, even by the bears, that an increase of at least 50,000 bales in our local stock is needed to properly balloat the trading bars.

Henry Clews & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, February 11—[Special.]—The sur-roundings today were somewhat in favor of the lamented bears, and from what we can see was caused principally by the heavy load of cotton purchased on yesterday. Liverpool did not care to participate to any great extent in the upward movement, hence considerable selling occurred during the dance to the considerable of the control of the movement, hence considerable selling occurred during the day, especially by firms with foreign connections. This change of sentiment cannot be accounted for unless it is merely what the average speculator terms "milking." The outside world is not disposed to assume further torture by the peculiar methods of "ups and downs," and naturally operations are confined within the bounds of the local element, who are ready and willing to accept profits. however small, and in most in-stances at the expense of those who are far away. The closing prices record a decline of 6 to 7 points The closing prices record a decline of 6 to 7 points as compared to yesterday, with the tone steady. The southern markets are firm to steady, at Wilmington and Charleston ½ up. Port receipts today show quite a deficit as compared to last year, being 17,073 bales against 34,445 bales last week. Spot cotton rules steady and unchanged, with sales of 11151 bales. Exports since the first of September, 3,728,892 bales; last year, 3,200,172 bales.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, February 11—A very fair business was transacted in wheat today, and the feeling was a little unsettled in a narrow range of prices. Early the market was quite firm, and prices advanced 1/4c above the opening figures. Prices held steady for awhile, but later, under free offerings, the market eased off and declined ½c from top figures, then ruled steady, higher about ¼c lower than yesterday. There was nothing new in the nature of advices received, and the market was governed of advices received, and the market was governed principally by local influences.

A very smart business was done in corn, and a better feeling prevailed. Transactions were not confined so much to the distant futures as of late, the nearby deliveries receiving more attention. The distant futures were easy early, influenced some by lower rates. Toe market opened a shade water the objecting rices of vesterday.

some by lower rates. Toe market opened a shade under the closing prices of yesterday.

There was an active trade in oats in deferred futures, but nearby deliveries were slow. A weak seeling prevailed, and declines of 1,0% were recorded. There was good buying by two heavy operators, buy the free selling proved too much for the buyers early in the day, Later a steady tone was developed, and slight reactions occurred. This was only of short duration, as offerings again became free and prices ranigly declined 1,0c. closbecame free, and prices rapidly declined ½c, closing tame at inside figures. An operator, who purchased most of the day, took one lot of 500,000 bushels May at 22c.

Business in pork was under an average, and entirely between room traders. Fluctuations in prices were so narrow as to attract no attention, and the feeling was barely steady.

Some little interest was shown in lard, but trading was light and at a shade easier prices. There was a slow movement on both local and shipping account, and prices were steady throughout, fluctuations being extremely narrow.

Children everywhere! From pit to dome—in every nook and corner—there were children.

How the little ones did crowd to DeGive's yesterday afternoon! In the history of the opera house, there never was a matinee as large as that of yesterday. There was not only no standing room on the first floor, but there was none even in the top gallery. Every available inch of space was taken, and the children were in a majority.

There were children with their fathers, children with their mothers, children with nurses, children alone—it was a case of "anyway to get there" with the children, and—they got.

They had all come to see the little lord, about whom they had read or of whom they had heard. A child actor has the greatest fascination for children, and every word and every movement of the child who assumed the role was watched with interest. The audience was a highly appreciative one, and the performance was most highly enjoyed.

Little Flossie Ethyl was the Fauntleroy at the maticage.

the matinee. She is a year or two older than the matinee. She is a year or two older than Georgie Cooper, and a head taller, but she is mone too tall for the part. One cannot help comparing the two children. Flossie is a graceful, beautiful child, with a rich, musical voice. She is always easy in her part, always a finished actress. She charmed everybody as Georgie had the night before, but hardly as much, for Georgie is simply a wonder. At night both children appeared, one doing the part during the earlier scenes, the other in the later ones. Both were warmly received.

An interesting feature last night was the presence of the children of the Hebrew Orphans' home, who were there upon the invitation of Manager Morris and Mr. DeGive. It was a treat which the little ones seemed to enjoy heartily.

Just a word, in parting, about the "Fountle-roy" company. It is one of the evenly balanced companies of which we see but few in the season; every part is well taken. Too much praise, too, cannot be given Mr. Haswain, who is the old earl. His is a really magnificent performance, making it easy to be lieve that he is considered the best of all those who have assummed the role. Miss Rossmore and Mr. Peakes deserve the highest praise.

A gold mine? Yes, that is what "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has proved to everybody who has been interested in its production. Two years ago Mrs. Burnett offered the play to several New York managers, asking $2,500 for it. They refused, as they did not think it possible to find a child who could act the title role. Mr. French, who saw it in England, decided to take it and pay a royalty of ten per cent of the gross receipts to the author. It's instantaneous success will be remembered. The three companies now playing it must yield Mrs. Burnett an income of from $1,500 to $2,000 each week as her share. A gold mine, indeed!

The Great Kiralty's Lagardere. The Great Kiralty's Lagardere.

Tonight, for the first time in Atlanta, Kiralfy will produce his "Lagardere" gorgeous, spectacular play, with two carloads of scenery and scence effects, and what is deemed to be the finest ballet, which ever came south. The fame of the great manager is known from everybody, who has traveled north, or has read newspapers. None ever equalled Kiralfy in the grandeur of his conceptions in the spectacular line, and he never put on the stage any play which had not tions in the spectacular line, and he never put on the stage any play which had not a stamp of extraordinary artistic character.
"Legardere" is a translation of the French
"The Hunchback of Paris," a play in itself very interesting, but rendered more so by the lavish mise en scene of Kiralfy, its gorgeous pageants, its ballets and scenery. For its magnificent scenic effects alone the play ought to be seen. "Lagardere" had a long run at Niblo's, then was played for a long time in all the large cities of the north, zverywhere crowding the largest theaters.

The New York Telegram thus expressed its appreciation:

The New York Telegram thus expressed its appreciation:

The etoge of Niblo's, last evening, was rich with color and picturesque scenery and grouping of people, during the spectacular representation of Feval's play, "Lagardere, the Hunchback of Paris," which opened the season. The auditorium was crowded long before the time for raising the curtain. The play was given with a gorgeousness of detail which has seldom been equaled, and the costumes, which were rich and artistic, are historically correct to a degree. The entire production, containing, as it does, eleven scenes and two elaborate ballets, went off without a hitch. The two ballets were probably the best ever produced by Imre Kiralfy. The tableaux were enthusiastically applicated.

The managers of this attraction, to appear in Atlanta next Friday and Saturday, address the following card to the public:

Regarding the general public of the present generation as possessed of a critical and discriminating judgment in the matter of popular amusements, Messrs. Peck & Fursman have been severely careful in the selection and presentation of "On the Trail, or Daniel Boone the Pioneer." They have devoted over a year and several thousand dollars to completing and perfecting every detail for its final and successful production.

Messrs. Peck and Fursman have had a long and very extensive experience as managers, and by a close study of the wants of the amusement loving multitudes of both England and America, have happily discovered the secret of just what they desire and insist upon having. This potent demand of a liberal public must be satisfied, in every sense of the word, and to this, end the management has spared neither effort, energy, time nor liberal expenditure of money to produce "On the Trail" in a highly interesting, exciting, realistic and sensational manner never attempted by any management, under similar circumstences, in this of any other country.

To enhance the sensational realism of this great, emotisnal, romantic crama of border life, several broncho ponies, huge bears, fierce welves, trained hunting dogs, a stately elk, American Indians, gennine western cowboys, Mexicans, etc., are used in the action of the many soul-stirring scenes.

Wild Red Fox Caught in Grant

A real live red fox! Caught within sight of the new state capitol,

Tame? No, sir; as wild as you ever saw, and fleet as the wind. Still, he was caught near Fort Walker, without the aid of a dog. Monday morning, as the dummy was making the circuit of the park, Keeper Havens, of the Gress zoo, and others, discovered a beautiful the Gress zoo, and others, discovered a beautiful red fox running across the park from toward Lake Abana, and they gave chase.

The fox ran toward the dummy, and when near it became panic-stricken and turned. His pursuers were thus enabled to get close upon the fugitive, and with whoops and yells they pursued poor frightened reynard as he doubled on his trail.

The engineer and conductor of the dummy saw the race, and as the engine steamed up they jumped off and joined the exciting chase.

There was not a dog in the crowd, but the men who were after the fox had him pretty well surrounded. He made a break for the creek and into the water he escaped, just as the pursuers reached the bank.

The fex was so badly frightened that he seemed paralyzed, and the men captured him before he could get out of the water.

Keeper Havens has him chained up and will add him to the already fine collection of the Gress Zoo.

CRIPPLED SOLDIERS.

SCENES IN THE DEPARTMENT WHERE PENSIONS ARE PAID.

Papers in the Office-Others That

Captain "Tip" Harrison, clerk in the execu tive department, probably knows more about Georgia ex-confederates than any other one man in the state. Besides being an old soldier himself, and personally acquainted with hundreds of them in all parts of the state, his position as the head of the state's pension office brings him in contact with a great many disabled soldiers, and to meet one under these circumstances is to know him. Captain "Tip" never needs nother introduction, nor does the old soldier Since the 3d of February, the paying of pensions and answering of applications have taken up almost the entire time of the department. The nine hundred and fiftieth application was disposed of just before the office closed yesterday afternoon

At that rate, the whole number will be dis-posed of by the 10th of March. A few applications may come in afterwards, but they are few and far between.

The total number this year will probably reach three thousand. Last year there were two thousand seven hundred.

Treasurer Hardeman paid out $6,000 in pensions yesterday.

WHO DRAW THE PENSIONS The only general officer in Georgia that draws a pension is General Longstreet. It is fifty dollars, and on account of a wound in the neck, disabling an arm. His application, all formally drawn and indorsed, was one of a number that came by mail yesterday, and was filed away to be taken up in its turn.

General William Walker, now in Atlanta, lost his pension by becoming a citizen of Florida. It was $100 for the loss of a leg. Judge Mark Blandford, of the supreme court, draws $100 for the loss of an arm at McDowell, before the first Manassas. Judge W. T. Newman, of the United States district court, draws $100 for the loss of an arm.

Dr. Todd draws $100 for the loss of his arm.

Comptroller-General Wright draws $100 for the loss of a leg.
Colonel I. W. Avery draws $100 this year for a wound that disables the lower limbs. It was only $50 last year, but increased by a general act of the legislature. Many prominent people in all parts of the state-Major Joe Blance, of Cedartown; Hon. A. M. Foute, of Bartow; Judge George N. Lester, of Marietta, and a great many others draw pensions as ex-ronfederates. WOUNDED BUT NOT ELIGIBLE. General Gordon does not draw a pension not being eligible, though he was several times badly wounded.

Captain Tip Harrison, who sees to it that so many others are pensioned, is not himself a pensioner, though he was twice dangerously wounded

General Phil Cook is perhaps eligible, but is not a pensioner. His right arm is disabled, and another wound in the leg keeps him limpand another would in the leg keeps him imping in inclement weather.
General William Phillips is probably entitled to draw a pension for the loss of his sight in one eye, but he has never filed an application for it.

The LIMIT OF PENSIONS.

No pension can be higher than $150.

And it takes an unusual combination of wounds to secure that.

unds to secure that. Wounds to secure that.

It is paid, for example, for the loss of both legs. R. H. Nations, of Whitfield, is paid $150 for the loss of both legs above the kuees. in the fight at Decatur, Ala. He was a 12th Louisiana man.

Louisiana man. E. B. Higginbotham, of Elbert county, draws $150 for the loss of both legs below the knees.

About fifteen old soldiers in the state are paid $150 each for the loss of both eyes.

The average pension is between $50 and $60. Thus about 100 warrants were drawn yesterday, aggregating nearly $6,000. The limits are $10 and $150.

MANY TIMES WOUNDED.

The most remarkable application on file in the office is that of Mr. G. C. Cable, of Riehnend county.

He was a private in company E, of Tom Cobb's legion. At South Mountain, Md., he received the following wounds:

A minnie ball went through the right thigh.

Another minnie ball struck the left leg below the knee teking out one place of home six low the knee, taking out one piece of bone six inches long, and breaking the other bone of the left leg below the knee, within a few inches of the minnie ball wound.

A minnie ball went through the right arm, breaking the bone and rendering the arm permanently useless.

A piece of shell struck the right shoulder, breaking the bone and dislocating the shoulder.

Another piece of shell tore the fleshy part of the left leg below the knee, within a few inches

Besides all these were two wounds on the head, probably inflicted with the butt of a gun, Mr. Cable is paid the limit of $150.

AS TO THE WRITTEN APPLICATIONS.*

There is some inevitable delay in forwarding pensions where the applications are made by mail. This is owing to the great number of applicantions on hand. The papers are to be carefully examsned, indorsed and filed, and the process is a very tedious one. The clerks are at work night and day, and the delay is no more than is absolutely unavoidable. Each application is taken up in its turn, and the money forwarded just as early avoidable. Each application is taken up in its turn, and the money forwarded just as early YOUR OWN LIFE.

May Be Saved if You Will Think of Yourself a Moment and Then Act.

Ulceration of the bowels, usually called "itching piles," is a very common affliction, and not causing much pain is usually considered of small importance, and the disease is allowed to develop into a very grave affliction. The symptoms of this trouble are moisture and itching around the anus, pain across the hips (low down), diarrhea, and irregular bowels, pain in lower part of same, indigestion, and a long train of nervous symptoms, differing in nearly every case); and in the female; who are more liable to be affected than the male, many symptoms usually attributed to female diseases. This disease is a very fruitful cause of many diseases retusing to yield to the treatment of your physician, and places, you on the list of "incurables." The results of neglecting this affliction are terrible to contemplate, a general impairment of health, frequently so slow as to be scarcely noticeable, derangement of the nervous system, unfitting you for business or enjoyment of pleasure, the development of cancer and stricture of bowels, or loss of power of controlling same when happily death intervenes and relieves the sufferer of histortures. This is a terrible picture, but a true one. You may by neglect make this your own; can you take the risk when a cure is offered you? Treating rectal diseases exclusively for a number of years, I am able to offer you a cure without the usual pain attending the treatment I employ for their cure is mild and is not unpleasant in anyway, as I use neither knife or caustic applications. I have cured many, and I am willing that they should tell you of my success if you wish it. I can furnish you their names if you prefer it. On my past success I am willing to stand or fall. Can I offer you anything fairer? If you wish to investigate what I have said, I extend to you an invitation to consult me, (free of cost,) and I will prove all I have said to the satisfaction of the most skeptical. ## WHY COUGH, WHEN a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will relieve you? Try it.

Amanda B. Jenner, Northampton, Mass., writes: "Common gratitude im-pels me to acknowledge the great beno-fits I have derived for my children from fits I have derived for my children from the use of Ayer's most excellent Cherry Pectoral. I had lost two dear children from croup and consumption, and had the greatest fear of losing my only re-maining daughter and son, as they were delicate. Happily, I find that by giving them Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the first symptoms of throat or lung trouble, they are relieved from danger, and are be-coming robust, healthy children."

coming robust, healthy children."

"In the winter of 1885 I took a bad cold which, in spite of every known remedy, grew worse, so that the family physician considered me incurable, supposing me to be in consumption. As a last resort I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, in a short time, the cure was complete. Since then I have never been without this medicine. I am fifty years of age, weigh over 180 pounds, and attribute my good health to the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—G.W.Youker, Salem, N. J.

Salem, N. J.

"Last winter I contracted a severe cold, which by repeated exposure, became quite obstinate. I was much troubled with hoarseness and bronchial irritation. After trying various medicines, without relief, I at last purchased a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. On taking this medicine, my cough ceased almost immediately, and I have been well ever since."—Rev. Thos. B. Russell, Secretary Holston Conference and P. E. of the Greenville District, M. E. C., Jonesboro, Tenn.
